

Man, 40, denies causing serious injury collision

JULIAN MAKEY
@JulianMakeyCN

A FATHER-of-two from Haverhill has appeared in court charged in connection with a crash that left a footballer so badly injured that he had to have both of his legs amputated below the knee.

Jan Adamec, 40, pleaded not guilty to two charges of causing serious injury by dangerous driving at Peterborough Magistrates' Court on Monday.

The chef, from Shetland Road, Haverhill, was remanded to appear at Cambridge Crown Court for a further hearing on August 8.

Adamec is accused of crashing his grey Ford Focus into Shaun Whiter and Joey Abbs' stationary vehicles on Dullingham Road, just outside Newmarket, on July 1.

VICTIM: Shaun Whiter with his fiancée Charlotte Way

The court heard that friends, Mr Whiter and Mr Abbs, had stopped to change a tyre on the rural single carriageway when the collision happened just before 11pm.

The two men, who play for Newmarket Town Football Club and Soham Town Rangers respectively, suffered leg injuries and were taken to Addenbrooke's.

Mr Whiter, who had been wearing a high-visibility jacket, had to have both his legs amputated from below the knee after the incident and Mr Abbs suffered injuries to his left leg.

Adamec, a Czech national, has been living in the UK for 20 years and in Haverhill for the last decade, close to his estranged wife and two children.

Shaun's fiancée, Charlotte Way, set up a fundraising campaign last Tuesday with the aim of raising £120,000 to help him walk down the aisle at their wedding next summer.

In just a week it has raised more than £55,000 – vital funds which will help Shaun purchase modifications for his home and equipment.

He has also announced his intention to compete in the 2020 Paralympics.

Shaun's football team Newmarket Town FC, and Joey's former club, Ipswich Town FC, will play a charity match in aid of the two men on Sunday, July 31 at Newmarket's ground on Cricket Field Road.

Newmarket chairman John Olive said: "We've had flowers left here, people have left donations, it's been quite tremendous. The amount of people that have come from all over East Anglia to wish them well and to try to do something for them is absolutely wonderful."

CROWDS turned out for Haverhill's transport rally on Sunday.

More than 150 vehicles were displayed in the Arts Centre car park for the event, which was organised by Haverhill Town Council and the Historic Commercial Vehicle Society. Residents could take rides on vintage buses.

Town council arts and leisure manager Nick Keeble said: "We were delighted with the response to the transport rally this year and feel that the event has really 'come of age'."

"We had a great response to the bus rides, especially the open top buses and the road run created an excellent spectacle for the surrounding villages."

£5,000 is raised for brain tumour research

A SUPERMARKET has raised more than £5,000 for a local charity.

Haverhill Sainsbury's chose the Smile of Arran Trust – which fundraises for brain tumour research – as its

Dog fouling reduces during village trial

DOG fouling has been reduced by more than half in a village near Haverhill following a trial scheme.

The scheme, which ran for four months in Wickhambrook, reduced the number of weekly dog fouling incidents in the village from eight to three.

Bag dispensers were installed, along with new signage.

One new sign requesting dog owners "bag it and bin it" was put up at the four entrances to the village's playing field. This was followed, after two weeks, by a sign branding dog fouling "dirty, filthy, shameful".

The scheme, which was run by St Edmundsbury Borough Council, also saw an article published in the village newsletter appealing to residents to clear up after their dogs.

At the end of the scheme, a report published said that the number of dog fouling incidents been significantly reduced.

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

The report stated that there are plans to continue the publicity campaign by working with the village school.

The scheme, which ran from October to January, is to be discussed by the council's overview and scrutiny committee at a meeting on Wednesday.

Other methods of reducing dog fouling will also be discussed. These include using Public Space Protection Orders (PSPOs) to increase the fine for dog fouling to £100, and introducing rewards for residents who report offenders.

They are also looking at using social media and continuing to participate in targeted awareness campaigns.

One of Haverhill's dog fouling hotspots is the Haverhill Rugby Club pitch. The report says signs have been put up there but were vandalised and so the area is being monitored two to three times a week, but no offences have yet been witnessed.

The report says that dog fouling incidents increase in October when the hours of darkness are longer, and so officers are proposing introducing an awareness campaign across the borough in October.

Last year councillors spoke to PooPrints UK, an organisation that DNA tests dog mess which has not been collected. At Wednesday's meeting they will hear about the results of a trial version of the scheme that was rolled out in Barking and Dagenham.

Over the course of the trial, 40 samples were collected, at a cost of £3,200, and only one was matched with a registered dog owner.

However, the London borough has reported a 50 per cent drop in incidents of dog fouling as a result of introducing the scheme.

French visitors remember First World War heroes

VISITORS from Haverhill's French twin town have marked the centenary of a war that devastated Britain and France.

Nine visitors from Pont St Esprit arrived in Haverhill last Wednesday and were welcomed by Mayor David Roach at the Haverhill Arts Centre.

On Friday, they took a trip to St Mary's Church in Haverhill's Market Square, where a memorial to the men who died in the Battle of the Somme was unveiled a week before.

The memorial includes a wall of 20,000 poppies made by local schoolchildren, one for each of the men who died on the first day of the Somme, and floral tributes to each of the 22 Haverhill men who died in the Somme. It was put together by the Haverhill branch of the Royal British Legion.

The Haverhill Family History Group also compiled information boards about the battle which were put up inside the church. They included one about the Battle of Verdun, as devastating to France as the Somme was to Britain, in recognition of the visitors.

The trip was organised by the Haverhill Town Twinning Association.

POLITICS

Consultation opens on devolution

NOW'S your chance to have a say on a deal that would see Norfolk and Suffolk working together under a directly elected mayor.

The devolution deal would mean that decision-making powers and funding are transferred from central government to a new combined authority for the two counties.

New funding would include £750m over 30 years to support economic growth and £130m over five years to build new homes. The new authority – which will be made up of representatives from councils across the region – is also set to have control of a £220m transport budget.

A mayor who will head up the combined authority will be elected every four years by residents.

A consultation period on these plans opened on Friday and runs until August 23.

Cllr Jennie Jenkins, chair of Suffolk's public sector leaders group said: "The deal on the table offers Suffolk and Norfolk much needed additional funding and the necessary decision-making powers to be able to target that funding to areas and projects which as local councillors we know will have the greatest impact for our communities."

This deal replaced an earlier one which would have seen Norfolk and Suffolk join with Cambridgeshire.

CRIME

Police warning after 'unusual' raids on garages

POLICE are hunting a burglar who breaks into garages in Haverhill... but leaves without taking anything.

Officers say the methods used suggest that the crimes are being committed by the same person.

They have now stepped up patrols in the areas affected after eight burglaries took place in a week.

Insp Danny Cooper, of Haverhill police, said: "It is unusual for so many burglaries to occur without anything being stolen."

Each time, the burglar broke into the garages by cutting or breaking the door locks.

Two break-ins took place at Squires Court, one overnight between July 4 and 5 and one on July 5.

Two garages in Bishops Court were broken into, one between June 30 and July 6 and one overnight between July 4 and 5.

HANNAH MIRSKY

@HannahMirskyCN

A further two took place in the Causeway, one between July 4 and 5 and one between July 1 and 5.

Further break-ins have taken place in Warwick Court, where damage was caused to a padlock between noon on July 4 and 11.30am on July 6, and in Windsor Terrace between July 4 and 5.

Insp Cooper said: "If you look at the sudden emergence of this series, with the method used, that leads us to suspect that it's the same person committing the crimes."

"We would certainly be looking at questioning someone about that."

Insp Cooper warned residents not to leave high-value items in their garages, as they could still be at risk.

He advised residents to be on the lookout for anyone acting suspiciously near a garage or carrying items often kept in garages such as strimmers or mowers.

He said: "We are interested in reports of anyone suspicious or acting out of character in gardens. We could just come and check."

He also advised residents to invest in security measures to keep their garages safe, such as an alarm.

Police advise fitting bolts on either side of a garage door and investing in a specialist shed door lock that prevents the door being lifted from the bottom. They advise choosing a lock that has been approved by Secure by Design or Sold Secure.

If you know anything about any of these incidents call Haverhill police on 101 quoting crime reference number 37/42827/16. Alternatively, call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111. If you think a crime is in progress, always call 999.

Local charity's bid to ensure all children get an education

SMILING: Children who have been helped by Educate the World

CHARLES WHITE
@CharlesWhite3

A HAVERHILL charity is raising awareness of children who do not have access to a primary school education – both in the UK and abroad.

Dean Brockway, a former teacher at Parkside Federation in Cambridge, set up Educate the World in 2008 along with his wife Christine and a fellow teacher, Edward White.

In the past eight years the charity has raised £80,000 for children across the world.

It originally focused on East Africa, but since Mrs Crockway died in 2014, the charity has concentrated its efforts in the UK.

Mr Brockway of Shepherd's Court, Haverhill, told the News: "My wife, Christine, was a strong believer in the concept of 'charity starts at home'.

"Britain wants to be a world leader in education, but I think the numbers of children without primary education in this country is higher than the official figures.

"It comes down to provisioning, and in this region we just don't have enough teachers with the language skills to teach children who speak another language, or who are full time carers. We don't have the teaching to cope with this.

"At the moment, Educate the World is really focusing on the effects of bullying and full-time caring on children's education."

Educate the World works both with local authorities and also directly with schools.

With nine step-grandchildren, Mr Brockway is passionate about education and receiving help from his former school was a big help.

"In the early days Parkside helped to raise a lot of money," he said. "My wife, colleague and I founded the charity in the staff room because we wanted to know how much of the money we raised actually went directly to the people they were meant to be helping.

"That's why Educate the World wants to make a difference with small local things rather than from the top down."

After his wife's cancer diagnosis, Mr Brockway had to step down from teaching in order to be with her.

The charity hopes to raise up to £1,000 from a concert in Cambridge on Thursday, August 11.

"Two Sopranos for a Tenor" will be held at The Portland Arms. It will feature sopranos Scarlett Quigley (patron of Educate the World UK) and Marisa Johnson (making her UK debut) along with tenor Charlie Botting and Adam Parrish on keyboards.

There will also be a speech from explorer and education advocate Justin Miles on a new arm of the campaign, called Teach the World, which aims to engage schools in the global education crisis.

The concert starts at 8pm and tickets are £10. To book visit iridacearecords.com.

FUNDRAISER: Sarah Kirkby wants to buy a cuddle cot for the Rosie

Picture: Vikki Lince

Bid to ease pain for tragic mums

A MUM whose baby daughter died 25 years ago after she was born prematurely is raising money to help other parents struck by tragedy.

Sarah Kirkby, 40, wants to buy a cuddle cot so that parents can spend time with their babies should they die.

Her daughter, Jennifer, was born prematurely at 26 weeks and was cared for at the Rosie maternity hospital in Cambridge. She survived for just seven days.

Sarah said: "My first cuddle was like my last cuddle. Probably roundabout an hour I had with her afterwards, which isn't much time at all."

"It's nice with the cuddle cot that if they want to bathe them, they can bathe them, and if they want to dress them, they can dress them."

The cuddle cot costs around £1,500.

Sarah, who moved from Haverhill to Great Abington three years ago, will be running a fund-raising stall at Haverhill's Summer Bash on Sunday.

HANNAH MIRSKY

Her friend, Edmond Davies-Lyons, is also planning to have his legs waxed, and he and Sarah have been raising money in sponsorship.

Sarah estimates that after the stall and the leg-waxing have gone ahead, she and Edmond will have raised £500 towards the cuddle cot. She is determined to continue fundraising until she has the full amount.

This is the latest in a series of fund-raising efforts for the Rosie neonatal unit the mother-of-three has undertaken over the last three years.

She began fundraising after she was struck down with fibromyalgia, a chronic pain condition, four years ago, and had to stop working. She is also a carer for her husband Jason, who has heart failure.

Sarah said: "I just needed a distraction, something to just keep me going. Going from full-time work to nothing is hard."

She chose to fundraise for the Rosie as not only did she lose Jennifer, both her eldest son and her one grandson needed neonatal care when they were born.

She started creating toy boxes using wood she found in furniture in charity shops and selling them via Facebook. She now sells other items as well.

To find her selling page, search "boxesforu" on Facebook. To donate visit www.justgiving.com/fundraising/Sarah-Kirkby1.

Pay taxes for peace, not war

Conscience – Taxes for Peace Not War – works for a world in which the resources currently put into waging war would be put into building peace.

On July 19th, Ruth Cadbury M.P. will put forward a 10 Minute Rule Bill calling for a new tax structure that would allow conscientious objectors to redirect the military portion of their taxes into a fund designated for non-military security.

Not a venue to hold a race

PLEASE can someone explain to me the sheer lunacy of having a cycle event along the A14/A11.

On Saturday, July 9, I was travelling along those roads from Newmarket to Linton between 4-4.30pm it was sheer madness. I witnessed several instances of really dangerous driving. The cyclists were in the inner lane but so were many cars and lorries.

On passing the cyclist the vehicle driving on the inner lane had to pull out into the path of fast moving traffic on the outer lane. At my junction, I had to stop, on this fast moving A road, because a cyclist was continuing over the junction causing the car behind me to pull out quickly, even though I had signalled in plenty of time.

This stupidity is putting the lives of, not only the cyclist, but also the motorists in jeopardy. Whose ridiculous idea is this?

EDUCATION

Primary school comes top across the region

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

AN ACADEMY in Haverhill has received a Primary School of the Year award.

Coupals Primary School, in Chalkstone Way, was named winner of the title at the Education Awards run by our sister paper the Cambridge News on Tuesday evening.

Coupals became an academy and joined the Samuel Ward Academy Trust at the start of 2015, after being put into special measures in 2014.

Since then, staff have been working on turning the school around and becoming an outstanding school by 2018.

The awards nomination for the school said: "A new leadership and largely a new teaching staff – but with the same fantastic pupils – have seen the school change its approach to teaching, thinking and learning from our youngest to our oldest."

The other two schools short-listed for the award were Fen Ditton Community Primary School and

WINNERS: Richard Duxbury, MD at the Cambridge News, Elaine McManus and David Maguire, from Coupals Primary Academy, and Linden Beattie, from sponsors Quay Mill Hotel and Spa. Picture: Warren Gunn

University of Cambridge Primary School, which opened in September, 2015.

Coupals headteacher David Maguire said: "We had kind of convinced ourselves before that we wouldn't win it. It was fantastic and we were up against two really good schools, particularly one that's brand shiny and new."

He attributed the school's win to the work it has been doing since becoming an academy.

"It's having someone else recognise it as well, is the thing which makes it special," he said.

The school has a £1.6million construction project coming up which will see it double in size, but Mr Maguire said the staff's focus would continue to be on the quality of education.

He said: "Really the key focus is to continue developing the quality of teaching and learning at the school. That's been our priority all the way through."

The team from Coupals were not the only Haverhill teachers attending the awards ceremony at Homerton College in Cambridge.

Becky Baldwin, who teaches at Castle Manor Academy, in Eastern Avenue, was nominated for the Contribution to the Local Community award. She established and runs Castle Manor's annual Community Extravaganza.

Her nomination said: "Her love for the outdoors is quite infectious and she vehemently believes that everyone in the school and local community should have access and opportunity to learn in the outdoors."

The Education Awards are run annually by the Cambridge News to highlight outstanding pupils, teachers and schools. More than 80 nominations were received.

Pub gets £4k to provide village shop

SHOP: The Cock pub in Thurlow

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

A NEW pub landlord has received a £4,000 grant towards providing a village shop and cafe on his premises.

Alex Bourne and his wife Rebecca bought the Cock Inn in Thurlow near Haverhill in March.

The couple closed the pub for refurbishment after buying it, and are hoping to reopen it at the end of this month.

The refurbished premises are set to operate as a shop and cafe as well as a pub.

Mr Bourne said: "These days people want convenience, not just beer and sandwiches."

"The shop will be stocked with convenience items that people need every day as well as locally sourced and supplied goods."

"At the same time, I plan to open a coffee shop in the pub so that mums and dads doing the school run can pop in for a coffee and a cake for somewhere to meet."

The pub will also have a superfast broadband connection so that home workers can take their laptops there.

The Cock is receiving a grant of £4,000 from Pub is the Hub, an organisation that champions rural pubs.

The money is coming out of Pub is the Hub's Community Services Fund.

Mr Bourne said: "With lots of other rural pubs in the area closing I felt that we had to broaden our appeal and increase regular footfall to the pub."

"There are now no other pubs in Thurlow or a village shop and we have lots of space here at the pub."

"I love the work that Pub is The Hub has been doing in incorporating other services within pubs so it seemed like the natural thing to do."

He also has plans for the food side of his business, and is hoping to announce a "significant" name as his new chef.

Mr Bourne says he will aim to hold an official opening shortly after The Cock reopens to the public at the end of this month.

EDUCATION

School challenge

HAVERHILL teenagers have won a challenge that sees three local sixth forms pitted against one another.

Samuel Ward Academy beat Newmarket Academy and the Thomas Gainsborough School to the top spot at this year's Wardale Williams Sixth Form Trust Challenge.

Students participated in five different challenges during the event at the Thomas Gainsborough School last week.

The challenges tested skills ranging from public speaking to engineering.

The event was sponsored by local opticians Wardale Williams.

Summer Bash promises lots of new attractions

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

A WHOLE host of new attractions are set to feature at Haverhill Summer Bash on Sunday.

For the first time, the event on the town's recreation ground will feature a falconry display and a balloon release.

There is also set to be a new "Meet and Eat" section for people to sit and enjoy the surroundings and a "Craft Village" where artisans will be showing off how they make craft items.

The Bash has run a cake show and a flower show before, but this year for the first time each will have a special category for under 11s. Participation in these categories costs £1 compared to £2.50 for over 11s. Children have to make six chocolate cornflake or cereal cakes for the cake show and a table arrangement with a candle for the flower show.

Organiser David Doughty said: "It's a natural growth. This is only the fourth one we have done. We have tried to learn from our first couple of years. We are trying to grow it and make it a bit more interesting, but we are still in our early days."

Former kebab seller Ertunc Mihrikani, known as "Stav", will be releasing the balloons for the balloon race, and will be presented with a gift for serving the community for so many years.

a lazy car boot at 8am, with the main events kicking off at 10am when the Haver5 5km run begins. This will be followed by a 10k run starting at 10.15am.

Other events, which have proved popular in recent years, include a dog show and a car show.

Over the last three years the Bash has raised a total of more than £15,000 for good causes. This year, charities which will benefit include LampH, which supports people with disabilities, women's group Wednesdays for Women and the Haverhill Scouts and Guides.

Money is also being raised for Haverhill in Bloom, Suffolk Mind's allotment project Get Up and Grow, and community transport charity Three Counties Transport.

Further recipients include disability snooker charity TJs Snookerability and the Haverhill Community Resource Unit.

Mr Doughty said: "We need to the people of Haverhill to come and support us. There're only nine of us who have been organising this. It's a lot of hard work, we give up a lot of time just to put smiles on people's faces."

GRANTS

Still time to apply for projects cash

HUNDREDS of thousands of pounds are still available for community projects in the Haverhill area.

West Suffolk Council's Community Chest fund has more than £330,000 available for community projects across St Edmundsbury. This is for community projects that strengthen families and build community resilience.

A further £165,000 has been made available across St Edmundsbury and Forest Heath via Public Health Suffolk for projects to tackle health inequalities.

Cllr Robert Everitt, St Edmundsbury's cabinet member for families and communities, said: "No one wants or deliberately chooses to be unhealthy – but sometimes they need help. This funding is about how we confront poor health outcomes. It involves understanding an individual's relationships with their family, friends, neighbours as well as their access to GPs, sports clubs and other facilities."

Applications for funding are open until Friday, September 30, with successful bids announced in December and funding starting from April the following year.

PLANNING

Decision on 30 homes is deferred

COUNCILLORS could not decide whether to approve an application to build 30 new homes on the edge of Haverhill.

Residents, councillors and Suffolk Highways have all raised road safety concerns regarding the development of land adjacent to the town's Brickfields Drive.

These include that an increase in parking around a junction could lead to poor visibility for drivers using it. Another concern is that Brickfields Drive could be used as a short-cut, leading to an increase in traffic and endangering children who play outside on the street.

Suffolk Highways has asked for a traffic management order to be put in place.

But Cllr David Roach said at last Thursday's St Edmundsbury planning committee meeting: "Putting a traffic management order in place is actually a farce because they don't work. We can't even control parking in the High Street – what chance do we have on a residential road?"

A planning officer suggested that the development should not be built until work had started on the proposed north-west relief road that would border it. An agent for the applicant said this was "unnecessary and unreasonable." A decision was deferred.

Councillors reject plan for demolition of hall

HANNAH MIRSKY

@HannahMirskyCN

A FORMER village hall has been saved from demolition.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council's planning committee rejected an application to knock down the hall in Stradishall and replace it with a house.

Councillors argued that the new home would have been too big, spoiling the village environment, particularly the setting of the Grade II listed Hoults Mansion next door.

Cllr Jason Crooks said: "Stradishall is just an absolutely great village. It's designated as a conservation area and its fully worthy of its conservation status. The Street in Stradishall has got seven thatched cottages. I think this should be refused. It's clear as day that the proposal will harm the setting of Hoults Mansion."

Councillors also pointed out that the hall was a community facility.

Cllr Angela Rushen said: "My concern is still the lack of community facilities for the village if this is demolished."

DISAGREEMENT: Councillor Jason Crooks, left, wanted to refuse the application but Cllrs David Roach, middle, and Peter Stevens voted for it

But some councillors disagreed.

Cllr Peter Stevens said: "It's not owned by the parish council. It was gifted by a private landowner for the use of the parish without charge for a number of years. The parish didn't offer to buy it, they didn't offer to restore it. They just let it decay."

An agent for the applicant argued that the building was not a "valued community asset" and pointed out that the applicant had provided an alternative place for the parish council to meet.

Cllr David Roach added: "The proposal with this plan is the construction of a building which actually fits into a village street scene. I just don't see why we have to refuse this."

Cllrs Roach and Stevens both voted for the application, as did Cllr Terry Clements, but 10 councillors voted against it.

Church is given £65k to replace stolen lead roof

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

A CHURCH is to receive more than £65,000 to replace its roof after lead was stolen from it last year.

All Saints' Church in Hundon had £30,000 worth of lead stolen last September.

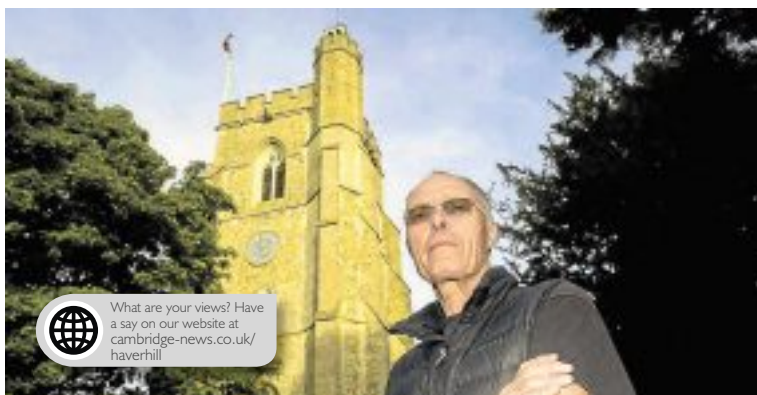

Richard Langridge, a supporter of the Hundon Parochial Church Council, said: "I was devastated. You went into the church, looked up and you could see the sky. It was really heartbreaking. Ironically, just a few days before we had agreed to install a burglar alarm."

A temporary roof was installed for the winter and with the support of West Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock, an appeal for funding was made to the Minister for Sport, Tourism and Heritage.

The church recently learned that it was set to receive funding to replace its roof from the National Heritage Memorial Fund.

Mr Langridge said: "We were delighted to get the full amount that we had asked."

He said that the church is set to have a new lead roof installed later this year. It now has a burglar alarm in place.

All Saints' Church in Chevington is set to receive more than £21,000, and money has been promised to 10 other churches in Suffolk. The funds are necessary after a spate of lead thefts from churches last year.

Mr Hancock said: "I am extremely pleased that £65,500 will be given to All Saints Church in Hundon and £21,800 to All Saints' Church in Chevington to repair the damage to their roofs caused by lead theft.

"This needless and destructive crime has very sadly occurred in several churches across Suffolk and I saw for myself the upset it caused to the local community on a recent visit to All Saints'.

"Our churches are a vital part of our history and cultural life and it is fantastic that money is being made available to maintain these beautiful buildings."

Mr Hancock visited Hundon on Friday to congratulate Mr Langridge and county councillor Mary Evans on receiving the funds.

Mr Langridge said: "We are very pleased – delighted – and we are pushing on."

COMMUNITY

Town events will remain free to visit

COUNCILLORS have said they will make sure town events remain free to attend despite increasing financial pressures.

Haverhill Town Council discussed introducing a charge for events, such as the Big Day Out on the town's Recreation Ground, last Tuesday, July 5.

In the past, events run by the town council have received funding from St Edmundsbury Borough Council. However, the town council says it has been told that to receive this funding in future, events should generate some income themselves.

Councillors agreed that they should ask for voluntary donations on the day of such events and will apply for funding from the borough council's Community Chest scheme.

Town clerk Colin Poole said: "The town council works in partnership with the borough on a range of community events through the year. We are a long way from Bury St Edmunds so logistically it makes more sense for the town council to take the lead organising these very big events."

"We just need to find a way to enable the borough to contribute financially too."

The events will be run with the Haverhill Community Trust.

EDUCATION

Women on course for university and degree

NEW HORIZONS: The tutors and students on the Haverhill course

For more news from the area visit cambridge-news.co.uk/haverhill

A GROUP of woman are heading for university to study for degrees after returning to education.

The women have completed an Access to Higher Education course run by West Suffolk College in Haverhill.

After attending sessions two evenings a week from September to June, the woman have the equivalent of two A-levels.

One of the group of six is taking time to decide whether to pursue a university education, while four have places at University Campus Suffolk (UCS) and one will be attending Anglia Ruskin University.

Dani Prior, 26, who lives in Haverhill High Street, is set to study English and psychology at UCS this autumn.

She said: "I did my A-levels when I was young, I partied and I didn't really study very hard, and I came away with nothing."

She said she decided to gain the qualification and go to university to improve her future career.

She continued: "It's just really given me direction. Instead of sitting there thinking: 'I wish I could go to university', I'm actually doing it."

HANNAH MIRSKY

@HannahMirskyCNCC

Tina Corps, 46, of Ladygate, Haverhill, decided to take on the course so she could study social work after spending years wanting to work with children. She's now taking time to decide whether to study for a degree.

She said: "It's given me self-esteem, confidence. I've jumped out of comfort zones."

Linette Blackmore, 37, who lives in Linton, is set to study a degree in English and history at UCS.

Having worked as a nursery nurse and a sports coach in schools, she's planning on undertaking teacher training after completing her degree.

She said: "I always wanted to go back to [education] but I didn't know how to get there."

With Parsley beside me, I have a whole new life

"ANYONE who says dogs don't smile hasn't met Parsley," says Simon Edwards, reaching down to pat his fluffy golden retriever. On cue, Parsley breaks into a wide grin.

Not convinced? Then head to Haverhill town centre, where you'll often spot the happy pooch with Simon – a big, jolly chap who's always ready with a smile and a joke himself – as they fundraise for Guide Dogs, the charity that brought them together.

But not so long ago the 42-year-old had very little to joke about. After losing the sight in his left eye in 2010, and almost all of the sight in his right eye two years later, he was diagnosed with depression, anxiety and post-traumatic stress disorder.

With his confidence in tatters, Simon rarely left the house he shares with his wife, Allison, and began to harbour suicidal thoughts.

But qualifying for a guide dog has changed everything for the 42-year-old. "Parsley has transformed my life," he says.

"He's given me my independence, he's given me my confidence, he's given me a purpose in life. I can't believe the difference he's made."

Simon's problems began when he was injured in an accident at work, which he can't talk about for legal reasons.

"I was OK to start with, but my left eye was really red and sore. Then about two or three days later I noticed my vision was slightly blurry, and a couple of weeks later it was like an eclipse had moved across my eye. That was the retina peeling away."

Simon was told he'd need surgery to have it repaired, but wasn't too concerned. "I'm one of these people that just gets on with things," he shrugs. "I just file it in my 'junk trunk' at the back of my head and don't worry about it."

The operation went well, but a couple of weeks later he noticed the familiar dark shadow coming across his vision.

The retina had detached again, and another operation was needed, this time involving sewing a nylon buckle around his eye to hold everything in place. "That was really painful, and I had to lie on my stomach for a week, not moving, with my head in a frame. It drives you absolutely bonkers . . ."

With the repeated surgeries, Simon sadly developed glaucoma, "and now I can't see anything at all in that eye. It's just like a grey fog; no light perception or anything."

Worse was yet to come: when Simon returned to work, almost exactly the same accident happened again. "Suddenly something flipped in my head and I just exploded," he recalls. "I went absolutely mad and punched the living hell out of a pallet. I was so emotional: I was crying, I couldn't speak. It was totally out of character – and really frightening."

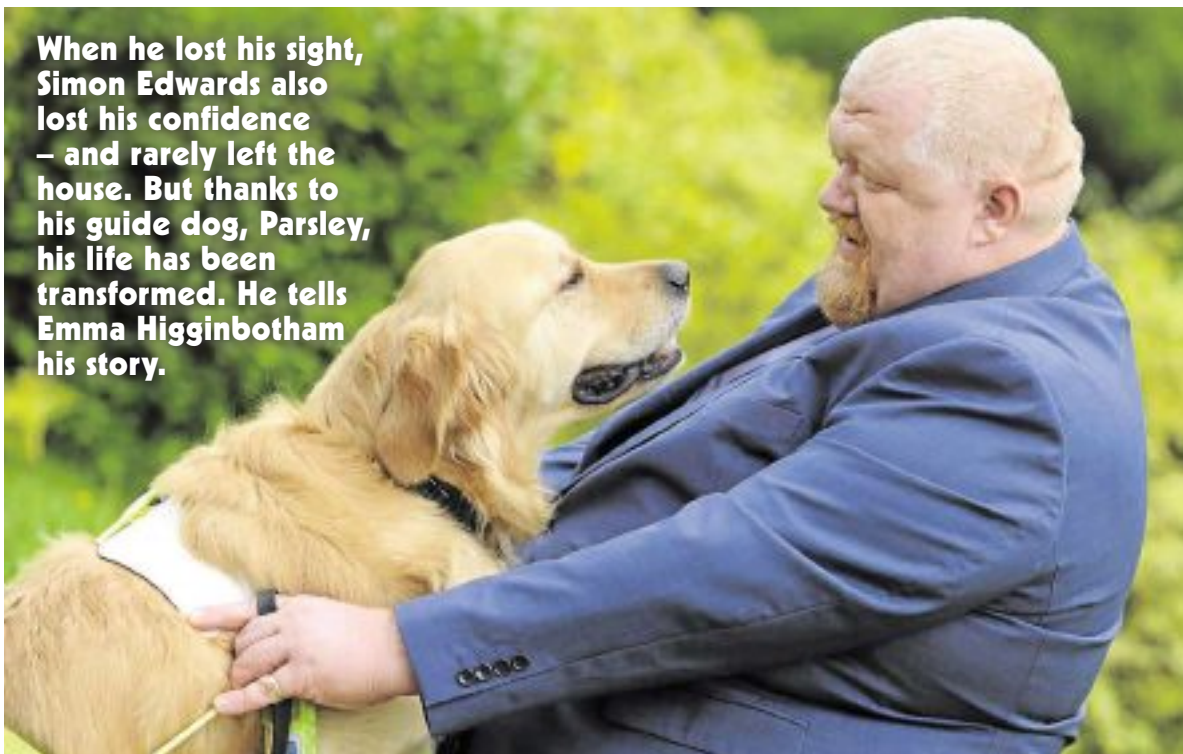

Sent to the doctor, Simon was diagnosed with depression, anxiety and post-traumatic stress disorder, "so filing it all in my 'junk trunk' wasn't doing me any good. I was obviously bottling it up, and it was quite a shock to think 'Oh my god, I need some help here.'"

He was signed off work, "and I haven't been back since. That was really, really hard, but I'd lost all confidence in myself. I wasn't confident in going out, because I was literally just bouncing off things because I couldn't judge the widths. I was always falling over, or smacking my shoulders."

"Then two years later, in my right eye I noticed the eclipse coming in, and I thought 'Uh-oh, this is really not good.'"

It transpired that his right eye had been over-compensating for the left, causing the retina to detach. More surgery followed, but additional problems have left Simon with only a tiny amount of sight in that eye.

When he lost his sight, Simon Edwards also lost his confidence – and rarely left the house. But thanks to his guide dog, Parsley, his life has been transformed. He tells Emma Higginbotham his story.

"The biggest part of losing your vision is the mental health side of it," he says. "I can cope with the physical stuff, but with depression, out of nowhere you can wake up so low for no reason."

"I hardly went out, and I was having suicidal thoughts constantly running through my head. I just thought 'I don't want to be here'. I couldn't do anything. I wasn't an asset to the human race. I was a drain on society."

Although he became adept at using a white cane, one day someone at Addenbrooke's suggested that Simon would be a prime candidate for a guide dog. "I said 'Don't be daft, there's people out there more desperate than me that need a guide dog.' She goes 'Simon, you can't see!'"

"So me and Allison had a talk about it and I said 'What shall we do?' Because by then we'd got Milo."

An adorable fox red Labrador, Milo is the other dog in the Edwards house ("We call them our furry kids"), and arrived as a puppy after Woody, their rescue dog, sadly died of cancer in 2013.

"Woody was my buddy," says Simon, pulling up his sleeve to reveal a large tattoo of a handsome chocolate Labrador. "He knew when I was down, and he knew how to pick me up. He got me through a heck of a lot, so when we lost him that hit me really hard. We got Milo because the house just felt empty."

Reassured that it would be fine to have a guide dog as well as his much-loved pet, Simon had a couple of initial meetings and assessments.

One in particular sticks in his mind: "The mobility instructor wanted to see how I coped with a harness, and we actually went down the High Street in Haverhill with her in a harness, pretending to be a dog.

"Now you can imagine a bloke my size, and a woman on the front, and I'm saying 'Walk forward! Good girl! Stay!' A bloke stopped me and said 'Excuse me, mate, some people would pay money for that!'"

Happily Simon was approved, but told that it could be up to 18 months before a dog became available.

Less than three months later he was in for a surprise: Guide Dogs had a dog that they thought would suit him. And so, in February last year, Simon had his initial matching visit with Parsley.

"I remember that day as clear as anything. I could see him pretty well, and it was just like 'Oh my god, you're a big fluffy thing!' He was just sitting there, and as you can see he's got the dopest grin, and I said 'You could change my life, mate'. And it sent a shiver down my spine. It was just one of those moments where it dawns on you what's about to happen."

Simon and Parsley went on a short harness walk together, then Andrew, the mobility instructor, said he was going to put Parsley back in the car.

"And I thought 'Oh, maybe we haven't done as well as I thought'. I was heartbroken. And then he said 'Can you go and get Milo?'"

They let the dogs have a run around in the fields, "and they got on like a house on fire; it was absolutely brilliant. Then Andrew said 'Well Simon, would you like Parsley to be your guide dog?' And I just remember welling up, and I said 'Come here, you big fuzzy bucket!'"

"My wife just glowed. It was amazing. Because it wasn't 'I've got a dog', it was 'Wow, I'm going to be able to get out and do things at last.'"

Soon after, the pair were sent to train in Norwich – a city that neither Parsley nor Simon knew, "so you build your bond up really fast.

And from the first day he's never left my side.

"We went into a chemist, because I forgot to pack my deodorant; I got the deodorant, and as I walked out of the shop I just bawled. Andrew said 'What's wrong?' And I said 'You've got no idea what's just hit me. That's the first time in three-and-a-half years that I've actually done something on my own, for myself, without relying on anybody else'."

"That was the moment that has driven me on ever since. Because my life now revolves around fundraising, education and volunteering, all for Guide Dogs, to give somebody else that exact feeling. Because that was the best feeling I've ever had."

Simon's life has truly been transformed. He's completed a speaker training course "and we now go into schools and do talks about guide dogs, about trust, and do motivational speeches."

"We went down to the House of Commons a couple of months ago for an access all areas campaign, because lots of taxi drivers are still refusing guide dogs; and due to our visit, we've actually got a private bill going through."

He fundraises too, "and Parsley and me are getting quite well known. All the kids are like 'There's Parsley!' and I can hear them saying to their mums 'We're not allowed to touch him,

Beforehand, my wife used to phone me up all the time and say 'Are you OK?', now she rings up and says 'Where are you?!'

OUTREACH: Simon Edwards and Parsley visit schools to talk about the Guide Dogs organisation; they are also involved in campaigning and fundraising.

because he's in his harness'.

"That's one of the things we teach the kids, because the parents, nine times out of 10, will come up and fuss him, and it's like no!

"Because he will stop, and when he stops to me that's danger. It's like me going up to you and grabbing your steering wheel while you're driving."

Life isn't entirely rosy for Simon. "I'm still on the tablets," he says. "Depression is a horrible thing, it's not like anything triggers it: you can be happy one minute and down on the floor the next, and you really have to battle it."

"Some days I just don't want to get out of bed, but now I think 'Right, I've got to go and do something positive'. I've got several people I go and visit who are having eye surgery, and they're really nervous, so I spend hours talking to them."

He's even contemplating training to be a counsellor – and it's all, he says, thanks to Parsley.

"My calendar is just full of Guide Dogs events," he says. "Whereas once I wouldn't go out at all, I'm constantly on the go now."

"He's given me opportunities I would never ever have expected."

"He's given me a chance to educate people, and we've met some really nice people who are struggling – and I'm just so determined to help people out, now. My driving goal is to give everyone that feeling I had when I walked out of that shop."

"And it's given my wife her freedom back, because she's not now worried about me," he adds with a laugh.

"Whereas beforehand she used to phone me up all the time and say 'Are you OK?', now she rings up and says 'Where are you?!'"

SIMON would like to say some thank yous: "I owe so much to so many people who have been part of Parsley's and my journey, from the volunteers collecting the money, and Alan and Christine, his Puppy Walkers, to everyone at Guide Dogs. But most of all to my rock, my loving wife Allison. Without her I would not be the person I am today."

the guide

Prepare to greet D'Ukes

TAKE six musicians, 24 strings and a hint of percussion and you have virtuosos of the ukulele – D'Ukes.

Whether it's rock and pop, jazz and blues, ska and reggae, D'Ukes manage to reinterpret songs in ways that may surprise you and with plenty of humour! So expect the unexpected with one of the country's top ukulele bands when they appear at Haverhill Arts Centre on Saturday, July 16, at 7.30pm.

D'Ukes were formed in Chelmsford in 2009, emerging from a regular ukulele pub jam session.

They have since gone on to perform on TV, regional and local radio and were the only UK band invited to the Czech Republic's first ever Ukulele Festival – which they headlined.

They are a diverse group of musicians whose interests cover the complete musical spectrum. What brings them together is an enthusiasm for playing a small instrument with four strings.

Their repertoire suits all tastes and ranges from 1960's pop to current favourites and with D'Ukes great vocals, slick solos and song arrangements it will be hard for an audience not to be singing, dancing and smiling!

Tickets are £10 or £8 concessions. To book call (01440) 714140 or go to www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk

Spot a future classic

WE'RE forever being warned of the dangers of depreciation and its crippling effect on our bank balances, but there is one way in which you can completely negate all this when it comes to buying a car. Choose wisely, and you might just find your brand-new car is worth close to, if not more than what you paid for it 10 years down the track.

As a result, we deemed it a smart idea to put our heads together and come up with a list of cars currently on sale that we think will make a good investment.

In other words, these are the classic cars of the future...

FORD FOCUS RS

Ford's new RS came to market with the weight of expectation heavy on its broad, boy-racer shoulders. Any concerns that it might not live up to the hype, though, were quickly dispelled. It's quick, it handles superbly, and for ultimate bar-room bragging rights it comes with a 'Drift' mode.

Priced from £31,000 and almost guaranteed to be a classic in 10 years' time, the RS is one of the most affordable and most secure automotive investments you can make this year.

RANGE ROVER EVOQUE CONVERTIBLE

Love it or hate it, the Evoque Convertible was certainly a bold move on Land Rover's part, and it might have been quite a clever one, too. Considering the popularity of both convertibles and SUVs, the roofless Evoque is something of a jack-of-all-trades. It also has proper off-road credentials.

This incredibly niche car could kick off a new trend among manufacturers, and who wouldn't want to own the car that started it all, even if it will set you back at least £47,500?

CITROEN C4 CACTUS

Everyone loves an old Citroen. Think along the lines of the sublimely cool

DS 20, or the classy SM. While they may have a fair few decades on the C4 Cactus, they all share that bold French styling Citroen has become famous for.

Just as people came to love the DS and SM, we think the C4 Cactus' quirky looks will continue to charm people well into the future. With prices starting at £12,990, this could prove to be a shrewd purchase further down the line.

TESLA MODEL S

Thanks to the efforts of Elon Musk - a sort of real-life Tony Stark without the flying suit - and his engineers at Tesla, electric cars are now at the forefront of the motoring world. The Model S is, arguably, the car responsible for this new-found popularity.

Not only is it a cool-looking thing, it also helped us realise that electric cars could be seriously quick. While an entry-level price of £58,300 is a fairly large amount of money to pay for a car that could ultimately turn out to be a fad, that could be the best outcome as far as resale values are concerned.

M2

Small, six-cylinder M cars like the M2 are always going to be a fairly safe bet when it comes to future classics. Think of it as a sort of throwback to the M3s of yesteryear, and look at the sort of prices they command now.

With 365bhp, rear-wheel drive, a proper six-speed manual gearbox, and the possibility of future classic status, what's not to like about the new M2?

Buy one today for £44,080.

SKODA CITIGO: Best in sector

Skoda bags some swag at awards do

ŠKODA has continued its winning streak at the Auto Express Awards by clinching another trio of titles. The Citigo, Superb Hatch and Superb Estate were all named as the best in their sector at the 2016 awards ceremony in London.

The Superb took two awards - Best Family Car for the hatch version and Best Estate car. While the hatch repeated its success of 2015, locking out the competition for the second year in a row, the Estate took its first Auto Express New Car Award, further highlighting its all-round ability.

Completing ŠKODA's triple awards win was the Citigo, which won the City Car category for the fifth year in succession - an Auto Express New Car Awards record for the category. The Citigo range starts from £8,275. Prices for the Superb range start from £19,060.

Record half-year for Jaguar, Land Rover

BOTH Jaguar and Land Rover brands have smashed their previous half-year sales records in the first six months of 2016, with Jaguar retailing 16,603 vehicles, up 68 per cent on the same period in 2015 and Land Rover retailing 45,711 vehicles, up 10 per cent.

This week Jaguar Land Rover, the UK's leading manufacturer of premium luxury vehicles, reported its best ever UK half-year sales retailing 62,314 vehicles in the first six months of 2016, up 21 per cent on the same period last year. One Jaguar Land Rover vehicle has left a UK showroom every four minutes in 2016 so far.

Jaguar, the brand behind the innovative #FeelWimbledon campaign, enjoyed its best UK June sales for more than a decade, retailing 2,928 vehicles, up 34 per cent on June 2015.

Land Rover retailled 5,805 vehicles in the UK in June, with the Range Rover Sport continuing to set the benchmark for performance in its sector.

LOT: 1949 BSA motorbike

Be amazed by a lot of Cheffins auction stars

AN exceptional selection of rare items from the Bygones Collection at Holkham Hall is expected to attract national interest at auction on July 16.

Over 250 lots will be incorporated in the sale and feature a rare Tidman Centre Engine, a Field Marshall Series 1 tractor, four vintage motorcycles and seven vintage cars, along with a multitude of fascinating rural and domestic bygones.

One of the star lots is a horse drawn living van, equipped with twin beds and original storage units. The wagon is part of the Bygones Collection, owned by the charity and enjoyed by Lord and Lady Leicester, their children and visitors to Holkham Hall. The sale also includes three classic cars and four vintage motorcycles.

The auction will take place at the Cheffins Machinery sale ground based at Sutton, near Ely. For details visit cheffins.co.uk.

Ford delighted as Focus RS wins 'Hot Hatch of Year'

FORD'S five-star Focus RS has added "Hot Hatch of the Year" from Auto Express to its increasing awards collection.

The latest acclaimed fast Ford has already been honoured by Top Gear, Autocar and Vehicle Dynamics International this year.

Now the all-wheel drive performance sensation has also been sent to the top of the class by top-selling weekly motoring magazine and website Auto Express.

THE FORD FOCUS RS: Came out tops

"The flames of the hot hatch fire were well and truly fanned when the Ford Focus RS hit the market," said Auto

Express editor-in-chief Steve Fowler. "Despite the muscular styling, the RS is still practical – just as a hot hatch should be. Ford has put distance between the hottest Focus out there and its similarly priced competition – in fact graduating into the mega hatch league of Mercedes-AMG and Audi RS3, only a lot cheaper."

The £31,000 hatch can now be specified for all seasons, with the addition of heated steering wheel and seats available as a Winter Pack. While summer is supposedly here, demand for Focus RS means an order today will be delivered in mid-winter.

Consequently Winter Packs comprise 10 per cent of latest specifications, with an additional five per cent opting for the heated wheel only. Luxury Pack (powerfold mirrors, rear parking sensors, KeyFree, cruise control and privacy glass) continue to be on 90 per cent of orders.

Ford of Britain chairman and managing director Andy Barratt, said: "For new Focus RS to add Auto Express Hot Hatch of the Year to its trophy cabinet is yet another highlight in its still short life.

The 345bhp Focus RS achieves 0-62mph in 4.7 seconds and its 2.3-litre EcoBoost engine can power the car on to 165mph. Its development was filmed for an eight-part YouTube documentary called "Rebirth of a Nation".

F40 tops supercar poll

FERRARI'S legendary poster icon, the F40, has topped a poll to find out the best 10 supercars of all time, carried out by the organisers of The Fast Car Festival – a major new show set to take place at Donington Park, Derbyshire, on July 30-31.

The F40, built to commemorate the brand's 40th anniversary in 1988, was the last model to be signed off by company founder Enzo Ferrari himself before his death. It was, at the time, the fastest car in the world, and was said to be the closest thing possible to an F1 car for the road. It also looked sensational machine, and still does.

The F40 was crowned the top supercar in the survey, carried out through June 2016, taking 18 per cent of the total vote. The closest runners-up were the Alfa Romeo 8C Competizione, Ferrari LaFerrari and McLaren F1.

The top 10 supercars of all time were:

THE F40: Ferrari has produced three of the all-time great supercars, says new poll

1. Ferrari F40
2. Alfa Romeo 8C Competizione
3. Ferrari LaFerrari
4. McLaren F1
5. Koennigsegg
6. Porsche 911
7. Pagani Zonda
8. Ferrari Enzo
9. Audi R8
10. Jaguar XJ220

These icons will be among some of the amazing and outrageous performance models in The Fast Car Festival's Supercar Paddock, consisting of members' rides from the online community phenomenon Supercar Driver. It will showcase feature cars that together are worth millions of pounds, including metal from the magnificent marques Porsche, Ferrari, Lamborghini, Aston Martin, Lotus and McLaren, as well as other extreme performance models from Audi, BMW, Mercedes-Benz and Jaguar.

Among them will be some of the most valuable supercars of all time, including a £2-million Ferrari FXX prototype, a Lamborghini Huracan and no less than four McLarens.

Complimenting it will be a Retro Paddock, packed with 60s and 70s icons, as well as retro performance cars from the 80s and 90s.

Former BBC Top Gear and Fifth Gear presenter Tiff Needell will be one of the show's star guests, and visitors will have the chance to win passenger rides around the famous Donington Park circuit alongside the former F1 ace.

The show will also be well supported by Pistonheads, the online community for performance car fans. Tickets are available now at thefastcarfestival.co.uk.

Electric car sales 'about to take off'

SALES of electric and plug-in hybrid vehicles are about to take off, and the AA predicts that more than 500,000 of these alternatively-powered cars will be on UK roads by 2020.

The AA believes that dispelling the myths surrounding the costs associated with running these sorts of vehicles could help increase these estimates significantly.

To aid this process, the AA has partnered with Chargemaster, the UK's leading electric vehicle (EV) charging infrastructure provider, to provide support and access to a growing network of UK charge points.

AA president, Edmund King, said: "Per mile driven, an EV is five times cheaper than the average petrol car and carries no vehicle excise duty."

The partnership will provide EV owners with a range of benefits including home charging units, and access to thousands of charging points at preferential rates.

The organisations will also begin expanding the number of domestic and public charging points around the country.

Chargemaster is currently installing 40 of its latest 50KW Ultrachargers in London – which are capable of charging an EV in less than 30 minutes – quadrupling the number of charge points within the M25 in the process.

AA research reveals there are a number of barriers and misconceptions surrounding EV ownership, such as their high purchase price, durability of battery and the availability of public charge points.

David Martell, Chargemaster CEO, points out that availability of charging points at a destination is a significant barrier to EV ownership, a concern that worried 81 per cent of the AA respondents.

"We want to change that perception. This new relationship with the AA will see hundreds more AA branded charging points installed," he said.

"They'll go in at AA-rated hotels and other accessible public places such as supermarkets, public car parks and town centres, while we will be embarking on a public awareness campaign to show that charging a vehicle at home is neither difficult or costly."

RACE ACTION:

Sims counts the cost of poor start in Spa

ALEXANDER Sims was the quickest man on the race track in the latest round of the British GT Championship in Spa, but a podium place proved elusive for the West Wratting racing star.

Sims claimed his first Sunoco Fastest Race Lap of the Weekend Award after another impressive drive at the legendary Belgian circuit, sharing a Barwell Motorsport Lamborghini Huracan GT3 with Liam Griffin.

And while it was not enough to secure a place in the top three, his efforts helped the team claim some points with an eighth-place finish.

Sims showed his pace during the early part of the race weekend, setting the fifth-fastest lap time during the first free practice session.

During qualifying he and Griffin posted lap times of 2min 19.775sec and 2.24.510 respectively around the 4.35-mile circuit.

That resulted in a combined time of 2.22.142 to put them in fifth place for the race.

A strong result looked like a strong possibility, but hopes of a podium place quickly faded as early as the opening lap.

Griffin charged off the line when the lights went out, but made contact with Rick Parfitt Jnr's Bentley at the first corner. That resulted in damage to the bonnet and a drive-through penalty, and by the time he had served his punishment, he was in 13th place.

Emergency repairs were carried out on the bonnet when Griffin came in to hand the car over to Sims.

Determined to make up for the lost time, Sims began to pick off his opponents, and improved to eighth place on the penultimate lap.

His lap time of 2.21.830 was the fastest of the race, and earned him the Sunoco Fastest Race Lap of the Weekend Award.

He said: "The start was such a shame as we had really good pace.

"We managed to persevere after the contact and pull back some places to get into the points, which was good for the team after their efforts and hard work.

"I managed to find space in the second half of the race, and am really pleased to have set the fastest race lap along the way."

The series resumes at Snetterton on August 6, but Sims' next focus is the Total 24 Hours of Spa on July 30 which he will contest with Rowe Racing in a BMW M6 GT3.

Vase draw throws up derby clash

BEN Cowling will be reunited with his former side sooner than he may have imagined after Haverhill Rovers were drawn away to Haverhill Borough in the FA Vase, second round qualifying.

Former Borough manager and chairman Cowling, who took over as Rovers boss ahead of pre-season, will come up against Martin Westcott's side on the 3G pitch at the New Croft on September 10 following last Friday's draws for the FA competitions.

The FA Cup sees Rovers at home to Hertford Town in the extra-preliminary round on August 6.

The winner of that tie is then at home to either Brantham Athletic or Hadley on August 20.

Rovers have found out their fixtures for the new Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division season as well.

They kick off the season on Tuesday, August 2 with a home game against Stanway Rovers.

The festive period sees them at home to Saffron Walden on Boxing Day, followed by a trip to FC Clacton on January 2.

Rovers end the 2016/17 season with an away game against Brantham on April 29.

Borough are due to find out their fixtures for the First Division tomorrow.
